About Swiss IT Security Group

Founded in 2017 and headquartered in Wettingen, Swiss IT Security AG, the parent company of SITS Germany Holding GmbH, is a leading group of companies in the DACH region. Consisting of top-class IT security providers, it combines experience and expertise, resources and services. Its goal is to detect and effectively ward off threats and attacks of all kinds. With the help of leading IT security solutions and technologies, they offer customers comprehensive IT security from a single source. This includes customised strategies, architectures and processes, well-founded sensitisation of employees to IT security risks and far-reaching service packages.

About AV-TEST GmbH

The company has existed in Magdeburg since 2003 and employs more than 30 people with significant professional and practical experience. The security of IoT and eHealth products, applications for mobile devices as well as the area of data protection of applications and services form the core area. AV-TEST GmbH works at an internationally recognised level and uses analysis systems developed in-house to enable guaranteed test results for all common operating systems and platforms that are uninfluenced by third parties and traceable at all times. In addition, the company is developing the distribution of various IT security products of its own (virus scanners, malware analysis) in order to be able to grow worldwide in this area.
